Bureau of Police Research and development has now emerged as National Think Tank on Policing. BPR&D is making strides in the following domains:

- Developing standardisation and accreditation norms for Police technologies.
- Evolving police practices congruent with emerging challenges of low intensity conflict, safe & smart city policing, cyber security & forensics, communication trade offs and so on.
- Speedy and qualitative investigation, prosecution & 'end-justice'.
- Quality of correctional services with a focus on psycho-behavioral aspects, skill generation and mainstreaming confluence.
- People friendly policing formats with focus on community interface and impact assessment mechanism.
- Integrating scholars, professionals, businessmen, NGOs and various social justice organizations with policing grid for greater synergies, evolving as a National resource.

The Mission of Haryana Police is to help the common man, to provide him security and to create a peaceful and law abiding community with his cooperation. Haryana Police is committed to uphold the Rule of Law, to prevent crime and to maintain law and order. We are here to protect the weak and under-privileged and also to serve the people. In order to make Haryana Police people-friendly, to enhance the credibility of the police and to check corruption, transparency in the system is emphasized at all levels.

Established in 1927, FICCI is the largest and oldest apex business organisation in India. Its history is closely interwoven with India's struggle for independence, its industrialisation, and its emergence as one of the most rapidly growing global economies.

A non-government, not-for-profit organisation, FICCI is the voice of India's business and industry. From influencing policy to encouraging debate, engaging with policy makers and civil society, FICCI articulates the views and concerns of industry. It serves its members from the Indian private and public corporate sectors and multinational companies, drawing its strength from diverse regional chambers of commerce and industry across states, reaching out to over 2,50,000 companies.

FICCI provides a platform for networking and consensus building within and across sectors and is the first port of call for Indian industry, policy makers and the international business community.
